Pioneer PTA sees alcohol, drug problems

By NANCY WALLACE
Staff Writer

Parents and teachers at Pioneer Junior High School in Upland got their first "official" whiff of burning marijuana this week as part of a PTA parent education program on drugs and alcohol.

Many also had their first contact with confessed teen-age alcoholics and drug addicts, who are now sober.

They listened first to John, still in his teens, as he told of beginning with drinking beer at age 10. Then they heard from Marsha, a heroin addict, and from Brenda, a regular LSD and cocaine user, both in their 20s today.

Also part of the program were Dr. Robert Kirshbaum, Sgt. Tom Barnhart of the Upland Police Department, and Douglas Zabriskie, program manager of San Bernardino County's Health Department's alcohol and drug abuse prevention program.

PTA President Marsha Schwartz said Pioneer parents and teachers organized the symposium because the problem of teen-age alcoholism and drug abuse is present in Upland.

Nearly 70 people attended, and Schwartz said she expects more to attend the program planned for the spring. Too few parents know how to recognize a growing problem or where to go for help.

One mother stood up during the presentation and asked for help. She knows, she said, her son is having emotional problems and is probably abusing alcohol, maybe drugs.

"All the signs are there," she said in a helpless tone. The agencies she has contacted thus far say her son is not desperate enough for them to help.

She, like all parents and teachers there, was given a list of public and private agencies to contact for help. Parents were also given a list of signs to watch for, and steps to take when they think they observe a burgeoning chemical dependency.

Zabriskie said programs such as these are fast becoming popular in the West End, and not just for parents of high school age children.

In 1980, the average age for one's first experience with alcohol was 8; in 1968, it was 12. And the younger children are not just drinking earlier, they're drinking greater quantities and more often, Zabriskie said.

He speculated that the burst of interest for alcoholism information programs in the West End is the result of the many people moving to this area in recent years. Moving is often traumatic, on both the family and the individual, and drinking can result, he explained.

The three recovering from chemical dependency stressed the same message: they began alcohol and drug abuse because they didn't like themselves, and the chemicals allowed them to be somebody that "fit" into their adolescent peer group.

Barnhart said Upland police most often witness abuse of alcohol and marijuana by young teens at large parties. He said the department estimates about 50 percent of police calls are somehow related to alcohol, and nearly all calls involving youngsters are alcohol-related.

Barnhart provided the burning marijuana for parents to familiarize them with the odor. Some said they had smelled it before, at public functions, and hadn't realized what it was.

Christopher Agler/The Daily Report

traffic safety, and is taking Casey to Upland's 10 elementary schools to spread the message before Christmas vacation.

Casey cautions youngsters

By NANCY WALLACE
Staff Writer

Chino started it with "Barney." Ontario followed with "Charley." Now Upland has its copy, and they call him "Casey."

Casey is Upland Police Department's "talking" police car. Sgt. Tom Barnhart will be taking him to visit all of Upland's 10 elementary schools in the next two weeks. Barnhart uses Casey to help children learn about pedestrian and bicycle safety.

Like his predecessors, Casey "comes alive" with blinking lights and a "voice" atop his roof, but only after the children tell him to wake up. Barnhart gives the car a pat — pressing a button — and Casey begins to vawn.

Casey gets lots of giggles, especially when he asks Barnhart to scratch his "teeth" on the light bar. "My mouth is on top of my head," Casey says. Some youngsters grin in delight, others look a little skeptical.

"I must be the luckiest car in the whole world, because I have you as all my new friends," Casey concludes, and tells the children to wave at all the other police cars because they get lonely. They practice by waving goodbye to Casey.

Barnhart said this method of teaching traffic safety is effective because children are impressed with the talking car. The concept was originated by Sgt. Doug Millmore in 1979 because films and lectures weren't working. Upland's Casey can take some credit for the city's fourth annual pedestrian safety award from the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The car "talks" via a speaker system in the light bar on the roof. The tape is modified each year for Casey's repeated visits to the schools.

Bill Gatlin of Chino, who wired both Barney and Charley, employed the aid of his volunteer Regional Emergency Communications (RECOM) Club to complete Casey's voice in about four hours.

Casey is actually Casey II. Upland's original talking car was retired last year and serves as a patrol car in another city.

This new Casey, a 1979 Malibu, was donated by Enterprise Chevrolet of Upland. Enterprise general manager Tom Collette was on hand Tuesday for the car's debut at Cabrillo School.

Area jobless rate jumps to 9.1%

The unemployment rate for the San Bernardino-Riverside counties area increased to 9.1 percent in October from 8.7 percent in September, the state Employment Development Department announced.

The rate in October 1980 was 7.8 percent.

The EDD noted that unemployment in the two-county area rose from 50,500 in September to 55,100 in October.

This compares with an estimated jobless total of 45,000 in October 1980.

However, the total civilian labor force increased to 606,900 for October from 582,400 in September. The October 1980 total was estimated at 573,800.

At the same time, civilian employment rose from 531,900 in September to 551,800 in October.

The figure for October 1980 was estimated at 529,800.

EDD analysts have predicted a seasonal decline in unemployment in the last two months of this year as retail trade and the service industries expand their payrolls to accommodate an anticipated increase in consumer activity during the holiday season.

R.C. requests funds for Foothill Freeway

One million dollars worth of Foothill Freeway right-of-way protection has been requested by the Rancho Cucamonga City Council.

Following passage of a similar resolution by San Bernardino Area Governments (SANBAG), the council asked that the money be set aside for the proposed route which would include portions of Rancho Cucamonga.

The action came in response to passage of SB 215 — a state measure that raises the gas tax by two cents and provides additional funds for transportation projects.

Rancho Cucamonga and other cities along the unfinished portions of the route, which stretches from La Verne to San Bernardino, will be asking the state for additional allocations through the State Transportation Improvement Program.

Only $50,000 was allocated for the Foothill Freeway by the state's Transportation Commission in September with the promise that more would be added if SB 215 passed.

"With the passage of SB 215 and confirmation by the necessary counties, it is the appropriate time to request funding," said city engineering director Lloyd Hubbs.

April flood assessment vote rejected

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

Following the recommendation of an advisory committee, the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors on Monday rejected calling an election in April on flood-control assessments in the West End.

Instead, the Zone 1 Advisory Committee of the county Flood Control District set its sights on placing a measure on next November's ballot.

Long before then, the committee hopes to solve some of the problems facing a proposed assessment plan it abandoned Monday with time running out. Next Monday would have been the deadline for the board to put a measure on April's ballot.

In addition to rejecting the April election, supervisors also indefinitely postponed any action on establishing Special Zone W as a flood control assessment zone for the West End and the Fontana area west of Sierra Avenue.

West End and county officials have grappled for more than two years with the problems of how to make assessments fair and to come up with a plan voters will approve. Identified needs for flood-control channels and storm drains total several hundred millions of dollars.

A technical committee of city and county engineers drafted the assessment plan following guidelines from the Zone 1 Advisory Committee. The basic rates called for property owners to pay $39 per dwelling unit, $23.40 per acre of agricultural, vacant or undeveloped land and $702 per acre for commercial and industrial development.

John Shone, county director of transportation and flood control, noted that the Rancho Cucamonga City Council raised several questions on the proposed plan and opposed the April election.

Of the six cities, only Rancho Cucamonga had taken a formal stand against the April election, but its concerns were echoed by representatives of other cities. The Milk Producers Council opposed the plan as well.

Rancho Cucamonga Councilman Jim Frost, suggesting the program was moving toward the ballot before it was ready, said, "I think we feel the frustration of another deadline."

Councilman Mike Palombo, another committee member, said city officials were concerned that the program allowed no exceptions from the assessments for undevelopable land and that the rate for vacant land was too high. Rancho Cucamonga officials also questioned levying new assessments on top of existing storm drain fees in the city without some kind of credit.

Chino Mayor Larry Walker said voters in his city probably would not support the program. Ontario Mayor Robert Ellingwood, who pressed for the April election, said the program could not be sold to the voters.

Joe DiIorio, a partner in R.C. Land Co. and a leader in developers' efforts behind planning flood works for Day, Etiwanda and San Sevaine creeks, told the committee it could not expect voters throughout the West End to support assessments when most of the money for regional projects is earmarked for the three creeks.

Teacher has children's book published

By MARGE GROSS
Staff Writer

Joyce Cool has received many rejection slips from magazines for her writing efforts.

Now she is experiencing the rewards of having being a published author ... Cool has a children's book in bookstores across the country.

"The Kidnapping of Courtney Van Allen and What's Her Name" is the book written by the La Verne author and published by the Alfred A. Knopf publishing company in New York City.

"I have always wanted to write," Cool said. "I have written adult fiction to magazines like Redbook, but have always been sent rejections slips."

When she decided to turn to children's literature, it was a natural transition for Cool ... she has been teaching the fourth and fifth grades at Margarita Elementary School in Montclair for 23 years.

Cool started her book in 1975, "and had it rejected twice."

She put the manuscript in a drawer and forgot about it until last year when she decided to send it to Knopf.

"They had me do another rewrite," Cool said, "then they accepted it."

The story of "The Kidnapping of Courtney Van Allen & What's Her Name" centers around two 12-year-old girls. Courtney is rich and lives in New York. Jan (What's Her Name) comes to visit with her Aunt Harriet for two weeks while her parents are in Europe on business.

Aunt Harriet lives in the same apartment building as Courtney so she introduces the girls. They manage to get into all sorts of adventures, including the strange kidnapping. Actually, it is Aunt Harry, as she is called, who captures the reader's imagination.

This zany lady is another Auntie Mame, only with much more originality. She goes in for animals, such as the live-in pet jaguar named Miranda, and smokes cigars ... long, pink cigars!

Cool has put together a book which can even be appreciated by adults. She exhibits exceptional talent in describing her characters, the locations of the action and realistic dialogues.

The author said the story is strictly from her imagination.

"I guess I picked a rich girl because I'd rather read about the wealthy, movie stars, penthouses ... I think whenever I write it is about something concerning the very rich ... I prefer that than dealing with poverty."

"I think I really based Courtney on Caroline Kennedy ..."

Cool said the publisher was impressed with her knowledge of New York City.

"I have never lived there, but I have been to New York many times," she said. "I've never been in a New York penthouse, but I was in a wealthy penthouse here (California) but not for long ... it's all (the story) a figment of my imagination."

The youngsters Cool has taught for 23 years in-

Montclair are not a figment of her imagination. She has enjoyed staying in one place during her teaching career as "it's kinda fun seeing the kids come back ... the second generation."

Cool is a native of Maryland, but came to La Verne with her family when 8 years old. She earned her degree and teaching credential at La Verne College.

Currently, Joyce Cool has received an advance on her next children's book, as yet unnamed.

"I have written three chapters," she said, "and this book is a children's story for the fourth to eighth grade readers. It's about a dog that understands English and a lot of kids. So far I have used things that really happened in the classroom but they are slightly exaggerated."

The author said there isn't as much money in writing children's books, but "they go on forever where adult fiction comes and goes."

The lack of self-discipline is what keeps Cool from allotting time for her writing. "Anything draws me away ... tennis, 'I worked all day and am tired,' oh, I have a lot of excuses."

Now that she has another book committed, Joyce Cool will attempt to set up a writing routine. She has until September to complete the work on that dog which understands English.

It's good that Joyce Cool has a vivid imagination ... she can no doubt be counted on to come up with a "realistic dialogue" for the talking dog.

Pair a beautiful example of love in small packages

By MARGE GROSS
Staff Writer

Love comes in all sorts of packages ... small, medium and large ... and recently, a beautiful example of love in small packages came to Ontario.

Angela and Bobby Van Etten, houseguests of Paul and Brook Holtsclaw, were honeymooning along the way to Palm Beach, Fla., where they will again pledge their marriage vows.

Bobby Van Etten is national president of the Little People Foundation of America, and his bride, the former Angela Muir, was president of the New Zealand Little People Foundation. They met in Washington, D.C., where Bobby lives and works, at a Little People convention, when Angela was in Washington on a Winston Churchill Fellowship.

Three months after they met, they were engaged. They had a Presbyterian marriage ceremony on Oct. 31 in Auckland, New Zealand, with Angela's family sharing the celebration. On Nov. 28, surrounded by Bobby's family, the couple will exchange vows again in a Roman Catholic ceremony.

The presiding priest will be the Rev. Michael Greer, who, Bobby said, "has been my best friend since third grade."

Angela brought her white wedding gown, as the Florida wedding will have all the trimmings, just like in New Zealand.

When the couple settles down in Washington, Bobby will return to his job with the Architectural and Transportation Barriers Compliance Board, a board which provides plans, standards and does research on accessibilities to public buildings for the disabled.

Angela, a solicitor in New Zealand, will seek a school of law, and work for a master's degree. She is a graduate of Auckland University and the School of Law in 1975. Her practice there centered on family law.

Bobby earned his bachelor of science degree from the University of Central Florida and his master's in biomedical engineering from the University of Florida in 1978.

The Van Ettens' interests are centered, outside of their work, on the activities and causes of the Little People's organization. They will be working on the first International Little People's meeting to be held April 26 to May 1 in Washington, D.C.

Bobby said there are some 3,000 members in the United States, but over all there are 70,000 to 100,000 Little People in this country.

Both are interested in the activities of this International Year of Disabled Persons.

They may be small in stature, but they have big hearts and bubble with delightful senses of humor.

U. of La Verne chief says worst is over

VONNE ROBERTSON
Staff Writer

The University of La Verne has improved its financial position this year and, through one of its newer trustees, gained national recognition.

Armen Sarafian, university president, told college supporters "this has been a banner year."

Speaking at the school's annual trustees dinner at Griswold's in Claremont, Sarafian added, "The past two years were the worst in my years in education. But now we have taken the debt off our shoulders. We have eliminated the threat of possible bankruptcy."

"The college showed it could rise to the challenge. We improved our financing and regained accreditation."

"We went to the people and they supported us. My pocket is full of checks. We will continue to be bruised. Not all is perfect, but we no longer live in the fear of bankruptcy," he added.

Among those supporting the college is trustee Oscar Robertson, the nation's second-ranking basketball scorer until his record was beaten this week by the Lakers' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Robertson told the national news media he was on the West Coast to speak at the University of La Verne. For this reason, he said, he attended the Los Angeles Lakers game Tuesday at which Abdul-Jabbar broke Robertson's record.

Speaking at the university meeting, Robertson said education is the key to better jobs, to people qualified for community service and to being an informed voter.

"Colleges are a giant industry," he added. "They need money to operate. It's up to individuals, businesses and foundations to provide this money."

"What would happen in a community where there was no education?" he asked. "You couldn't even read to pass a driver's test. And you wouldn't be able to understand the laws which govern our nation."

Before the dinner, Robertson said he learned about ULV from a friend.

"I'm a strong supporter of the small, independent college," he explained. "And I think people need to get involved in helping others get an education. I appreciate my own education and think I have something to offer to this university."

Sarafian explained that Robertson has already helped the college make contact with several national foundations which support educational programs.

Robertson, a former president of the National Basketball Association Players Association and a member of the Basketball Hall of Fame, now owns a major construction company in Cincinnati. He is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati and a member of the board of director of a number of national organizations.

Many groups have supported the university this year, according to reports presented at the dinner.

Jerry Davis, chairman of a college-church relations committee, said 18 months ago 12 Church of the Brethren groups extending from San Diego to Fresno became concerned over the school's financial plight. The church boards set a goal of $500,000

Street-light pole trimmers sought

The San Dimas Chamber of Commerce is still seeking residents, families and non-profit groups to compete Saturday in the annual Christmas street-light pole decorating contest.

The event will be held on Bonita Avenue. Contestants are invited to design and erect decorations in the downtown area. Prizes include $100 for first place, $50 for second place and $25 for third place.

The contest starts Saturday at 9 a.m. Decorations will be judged at 2 p.m.

Rules prohibit political themes and electrical connections. A meeting will be held Saturday at 8:30 a.m. at the chamber office for trimmers. For more information, persons may phone the chamber office at 599-1102.

for the university.

A check presented to Sarafian at the dinner brought the total to $413,000. This includes $10,000 from the Pomona Church of the Brethren and $102,747.73 from the La Verne Church of the Brethren.

Ralph Davenport, vice president of the Davenport Foundation, presented funds to the university to assist with Christian leadership programs and student aid.

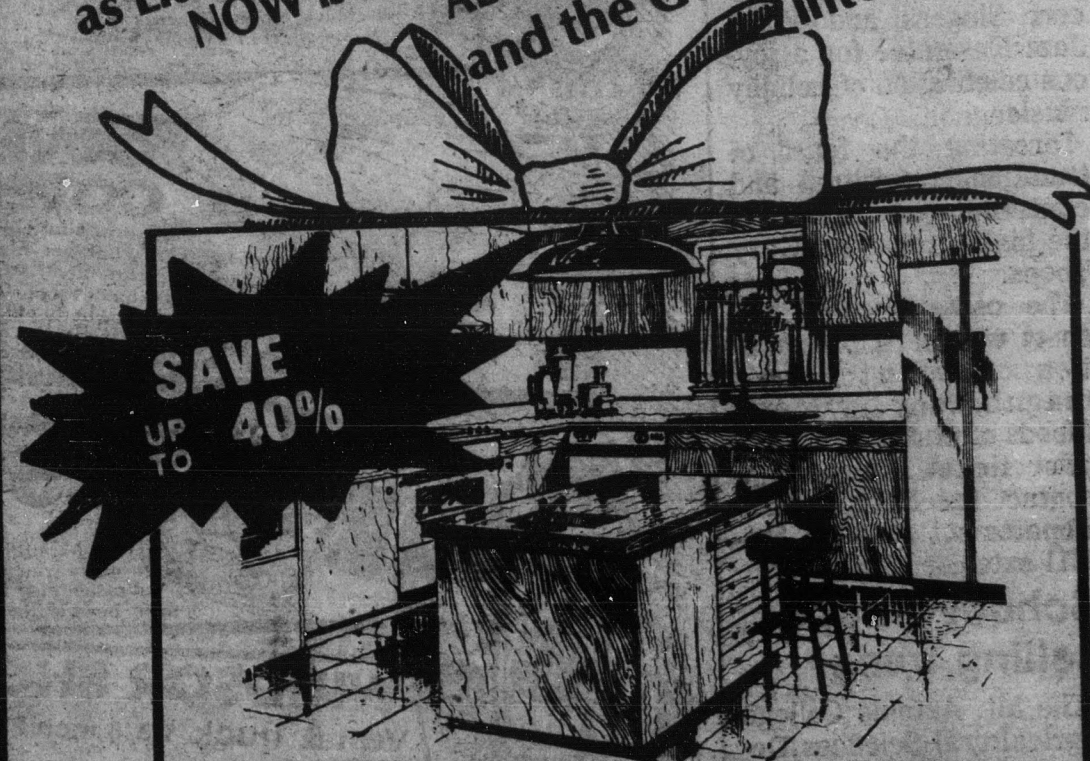

The Thursday program was the 30th anniversary of a traditional event at the college started as a fund raiser by then-president Harold Fasnacht. The former president was among the speakers at this year's meeting.

Ayala says panel packed with canal foes

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

Sen. Ruben Ayala has called a committee formed by Lt. Gov. Mike Curb to study the Peripheral Canal a "complete sham."

The Chino Democrat, author of the legislation for the canal and other water projects being challenged in a referendum next June, said Curb's Task Force on California's Water Future is packed with canal opponents.

"I think it's a complete sham. It's a political ploy. Who does he think he's kidding?" Ayala asked.

He particularly attacked Curb's appointment of Jim Fisher and John Lee. Fisher is president of J.G. Boswell Co., and Lee is an attorney for Salyer Land Co. The firms are the two largest owners of agricultural land in California and strong opponents of the canal because of Proposition 8.

That measure, approved by voters in November 1980, offers protections for the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta and North Coast rivers that go into effect if voters approve the canal package in June.

Ayala accused Curb, a Republican candidate for governor, of catering to large farming interests in the Central Valley in the pursuit of campaign contributions.

He said Curb called him "at least three times" when his canal bill, SB 200, was in the state Assembly last year and the lieutenant governor asked what he could do to help its passage.

He said Curb had his eye on signing the bill into law while Gov. Edmund

G. Brown Jr. was back east campaigning for president. Brown returned in time to sign the bill.

As for Curb's suggestion that an alternative to the canal could enlarge existing Delta waterways, Ayala said that plan has been pushed by Senate Majority Floor Leader John Garamendi, one of the members of Curb's committee and a Democrat running for governor.

"Garamendi's plan is 60 years old," he scoffed. Ayala said Controller Ken Cory, Assembly Speaker Willie Brown and Assembly Minority Leader Carol Hallett, other members of the task force, are all on record opposed to the canal.

Another member, Senate Minority Floor Leader William Campbell, helped defeat his first canal bill, although he voted for SB 200, Ayala said.

He pointed out that the state has spent $50 million to research the canal and it was determined the best alternative by the state Department of Water Resources.

"I think it's just a big joke," Ayala said, referring to the committee.

Ayala said Braun and Co. of Los Angeles has been hired as the campaign consulting firm to assist Citizens for Water, the campaign committee pushing for passage of the canal measure.

He added that eight county farm bureaus in the southern part of the state are now on record favoring the canal measure.

'Star of Bethlehem' blooms inside, out

The Ornithogalum is a bulb flower that does just as well outdoors as it will indoors where, depending on the specie used, it can take on dramatic dimensions in looks with its floppy leaves and star-shaped flowers colored white and green.

The Ornithogalum umbellatum is known as the Star of Bethlehem which will have 12 - 20 one inch flowers in a cluster atop a one foot stem. It can be left undisturbed in the garden for years and will continually produce its own new bulbs. Outside you can plant them in sun or light shade and in almost any soil. Space the bulbs six to eight inches apart covering them with two to three inches of soil if they're about 1½ inches wide. But if you choose the large 3 or 4 inch bulbs plant them to a depth of four to six inches. As a houseplant, make sure they get at least four hours of sunlight each day from a brightly lit window and feed them monthly with any standard houseplant fertilizer.

The pregnant onion, Ornithogalum caudatum, is planted for its bulb and leaves but does have small green and white flowers.

Blood bank asks aid as supply grows thin

By RICHARD PERAZA
Staff Writer

Regional supplies of some types of blood are dwindling rapidly, postponing some elective surgery so that blood will be available for more critical needs.

"Our usage this last weekend was 415 pints of blood and we only took in 196 pints," Paul Sautter, director of donor resources for the Blood Bank of San Bernardino and Riverside Counties, reported Tuesday.

He said the blood bank will usually issue 375 pints of blood on a weekend and collect about 235.

"Our inventory is over 400 pints low. We had to tell the hospitals we couldn't supply O positive and A positive (blood) for elective surgery," he said.

Low supplies don't stop an increasing demand for blood though.

"There were a lot of annuaries or accidents or something," Sautter said. He said weekend need for blood was so high that 60 pints of A positive blood had to be flown in from a Northern Californian blood bank to keep up with demand.

"We couldn't find any O positive blood. Everybody else was in the same situation," he said. "O positive is the most common. More people have it so more people need it," Sautter explained.

The holidays are traditionally not a good time for blood donations. Sautter said few people even think about giving blood during this time of year. "They're busy doing other things."

The blood bank does have regular donors but the law limits them to five donations per year. "Many of our regular donors have already done that so we can't rely on that," he said.

Blood bank officials said less than 5 out of every 100 eligible donors ever give blood.

"The need goes on every day, now to the tune of 225 pints per day," Sautter said.

He said demand during the holidays, because of rising traffic and accident rates, could increase even more. Giving blood, he said, could be considered "kind of an added gift that doesn't cost anything. It's a gift of life — and that's not just a cliché."

There are several different year-end blood drives being staged throughout the West End, Sautter said.

Today there will be two separate blood drives in Montclair.

Montclair High School will be hosting a drive from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. The campus is located at 4725 Benito Ave.

The second drive will be at Doctors Hospital in Montclair at 5000 San Bernardino Ave. from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m.

San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland will also be staging a blood drive today, from 8 a.m. to noon and from 2 to 7 p.m. The hospital is located at 999 San Bernardino Road.

On Dec. 21 the Friends of the Rancho Cucamonga Library will hold a blood drive in the conference room of the library, 9191 Base Line Road, from 3 to 7 p.m.

A Fontana blood drive will be staged at Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center, 9961 Sierra Ave., in building number 9 from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Dec. 28.

Donors must be in good health and between the ages of 17 and 65. Donors who are 17 years old must have parental consent. They can't have had malaria in the last three years or cancer, or hepatitis in the last five years. Persons with a heart condition can't give blood.

Blood bank officials recommend that donors eat a good meal before giving blood.

Each donor will receive a mini-physical including blood pressure, temperature, pulse, hemoglobin counts, medical history check and blood typing to make sure he can safely give blood.

The Blood Bank of San Bernardino and Riverside Counties serves 30 different hospitals, supplying them with blood and related components including packed red blood cells, fresh frozen plasma and platelets.

It also does some reference laboratory work for some hospitals when there are cross-match difficulties.

Historic group schedules workshop on records, files

A workshop meeting centering on card files dealing with historic buildings and individuals will be held at 7 p.m. tonight by the Ontario Historic Landmarks Society Inc.

The event will be held in the Garden Room of the Ontario City Library.

Bernice Bedford Conley, historian, will conduct the workshop on how to keep an accurate record of anything historic about the community.

The Ontario Historic Landmarks Society Inc. was founded in December of 1974 for the purpose of preserving local historical landmarks.

One of several projects taken on by the society is to survey the City of Ontario. When Ontario was founded in 1882 by the Chaffey brothers, it measured one-half mile. It is this same area the survey committee is documenting.

Mrs. Conley is survey committee chairman, and photography is being handled by Bryce Denton, longtime Ontario resident.

An out-growth of the committee's work has been to have three landmarks, Euclid Avenue, the Frankish building and the Bank Block (Grand Palace), as historic designations.

Four landmarks have been drawn in pen and ink by Roy L. Modgling, a society member. These are Euclid Avenue circa 1890, the O.S. Ensign House, G Street house and the Bradford house.

The Historic Landmarks Society meets the second Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Ontario City Library. All interested persons are invited to attend. Further information is available by writing the society at P.O. Box 1493, Ontario, CA 91762.
